STELLAR SHOW. PM highlights India's bio-conservation efforts too

Our Bureau Chennai

India has achieved its non-fossil, installed electric capacity target 9 years in advance of the 2030 deadline that it had set for itself, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said on Friday.

Today, India is one of the top 5 countries in the world in terms of installed renewable energy capacity, he said in his virtual address at the G20 Environment and Climate Sustainability Ministers' Meeting here, on Friday.

India has also set a target of attaining net zero by 2070, he added.

India continues to collaborate with partners through alliances, including the International Solar Alliance, CDRI, and the Leadership Group for Industry Transition to a Net-zero end-point pollution, he said.

On biodiversity conservation, the prime minister highlighted India's consistent efforts in restoring and enriching priority landscapes affected by forest fires and mining. This has been recognised through the 'Gandhinagar Implementation Roadmap and Platform', he told the G20 gathering.

G20 meet on climate sustainability reaches consensus on most issues

Our Bureau Chennai

At the conclusion of the G20 Environment and Climate Sustainability Ministers' meeting, a consensus was reached on 64 paragraphs out of the 68 that were taken up for discussion in the agenda, said Union Minister for Environment Bhupendra Yadav.

To a question on the four paragraphs where there was no consensus, the minister said, "There were some issues about energy in the four paras. Otherwise, everything is in the consensus. The major achievement of this G20 was that environment, land degradation, blue economy and forests need to be covered and there was common consensus in all these issues. In 95 per cent, there was a consensus."

LANDMARK MOVE Yadav said the meet concluded with G20 ministers standing united in their commitment to create a sustainable and resilient future.

In a landmark move, the G20 Members adopted the outcome document on "Chennai High Level Principles on sustainable and resilient blue/ocean-based economy," he said.

The document will be submitted to the leaders for their consideration to be annexed to the G20 New Delhi Leader's Declaration 2023.

The Ministers also adopted the outcome document and the Chair's summary, he said.

On climate finance, the minister said India's stand is clear that developing countries need a climate finance and technology transfer coming on the same level field. Developed countries have already planned to provide $10 billion, and there was discussion in the earlier climate finance and COP also.
